

After various experiments with all sorts of paving for twenty-five years, Boston has returned to cobble stones, as the only convenient and practicable material. The iron pavement is better, but too expensive. All the other paving materials have proved inferior to cobble stones.

THE ELDERED MEN ADVANTAGE.—The New York Herald has been busy recently reporting the sufferings of the poor, and the necessity of giving them a little help. It has been very kind to give a list of the names of the poor, and the names of the people who have been helping them.
